INTERAKTIIVSETE TEABELEHTEDEGA (FACTSHEETS) TÖÖTAMINE

Families First

Parents

Families First is intended for families with children aged between 0-18 years, in an acute crisis situation that is so bad that the family is at risk of one or more children being placed in care. In the event of an acute crisis, the balance between capacity and burden is disrupted, meaning that the family is subject to increasing levels of unmanageable tension and may 'implode' (see Bartelink et al., 2013). It may be that there is externalized problem behaviour on the part of the child, an ineffective parenting environment, inadequate parenting skills, physical abuse, pedagogical and affective neglect. This often takes place in combination with an impactful event (a death, a crime, etc.) Parents often may have their own, psychiatric problems and/ or socio-economic problems.

Objectives:

The objective of Families First is to resolve the current crisis and to increase the safety of the family, ultimately to prevent one or more children being placed in care. This is achieved via the following five sub-objectives: 1) A reduction in the children's behavioural problems; 2) An increase in the competencies of family members; 3) A reduction in the parenting burden for the parents; 4) An improvement in the parenting skills of the parents and 5) Family members making more use of their social network. (more...)

Kui olete leidnud sobiva hea praktika, klõpsake väljavõtte lõpus asuval lingil „(more ...)“ või pealkirja kohal oleval pildil. Praktika juurde pääseb ka ruudul (nt „Families first“) klõpsamise teel.

Families First

Parents / emotional violence, family-centred intervention, kids, neglect, physical violence, positive parenting, verbal abuse, violence

Families First is intended for families with children aged between 0-18 years, in an acute crisis situation that is so bad that the family is at risk of one or more children being placed in care. In the event of an acute crisis, the balance between capacity and burden is disrupted, meaning that the family is subject to increasing levels of unmanageable tension and may 'implode' (see Bartelink et al., 2013). It may be that there is externalized problem behaviour on the part of the child, an ineffective parenting environment, inadequate parenting skills, physical abuse, pedagogical and effective neglect. This often takes place in combination with an impactful event (a death, a crime, etc.) Parents often may have their own, psychiatric problems and/ or socio-economic problems.

Objectives:

The objective of Families First is to resolve the current crisis and to increase the safety of the family, ultimately to prevent one or more children being placed in care. This is achieved via the following five sub-objectives: 1) A reduction in the children's behavioural problems; 2) An increase in the competencies of family members; 3) A reduction in the parenting burden for the parents; 4) An improvement in the parenting skills of the parents and 5) family members making more use of their social network.

Intervention structure:

Support from Families First lasts for four to a maximum of six weeks. Four to five times per week, a family support worker will visit the family, as well as being available 24 x 7. The support is matched to the family objective and is focused on reinforcing what is going well and reducing the burden. The approach is divided into three phases. The first three days are focused on building a working relationship with family members, reducing the burden, gathering information and setting targets. Where necessary, the family support worker will provide practical and material support. During the transition phase, the family support worker will firm up the objectives with family members and translate these into action points, teach new skills, establish and increase safety within the family, activate and use the network and will teach the family members to recognize the thoughts and emotions that influence their behaviour. Halfway through this transition phase, the action plan will be evaluated and adjusted if necessary. The completion phase takes four days. The family support worker will then start any follow up support and will say goodbye.

Methodology:

Families First is conducted in the home by a specially trained family support worker.

Families First uses the following criteria for acceptance to the programme:

- There is an acute crisis;
- The parents, child and/ or referring body feel that the child should be immediately removed from the home;
- The existing resolution strategies that have been used by the family until that point are no longer working;
- The child has a (serious) behavioural problem and there is a lack of parenting skills on the part of the parents;
- The parents are not coping with the burden of bringing up the child;

Kasutajatel tuleb valida vastus, mis kirjeldab kõige paremini nende asutust või olukorda. Tulemused on toodud interaktiivse testi viimasel slaidil. Tulemuste võimalikud variandid on järgmised: a) praktika ei ole kasutaja asutuse jaoks piisav ning ta peaks lugema teabelehte ja otsima sama teema alt mõne muu praktika (kasutades eespool mainitud otsingutööriistu); või b) paistab, et praktika sobib kasutaja asutuse jaoks. Kõikidel juhtudel suunatakse kasutajad allalaadimisleheküljele, et jagada neile teabelehtede PDF-vormingus täisversioone.

Praktika kirjelduse all interaktiivse teabelehe lõpus on suur allalaadimisnupp:

Praeguses staadiumis on foorumid tühjad, projekti partnerid lepivad nende reeglites kokku.

Foorumis uue teema loomiseks tuleb kasutajal märkida ära selle pealkiri ja jagatava sisu selgitus (nt kui kasutaja otsib koostöövõimalusi Euroopa õpetajatega, tuleks tal ära märkida oma eriala, kool, kus ta töötab, põhiprobleemid, millega ta silmitsi seisab, jne), lisades oma teemale ka märksõnad, et asjakohaseid postitusi oleks lihtsam leida.
